WE DON'T DO FAST...

The only thing 'fast' about our Slow Cooked Italian - made tomato sauce is the time it takes to prepare a great tomato sauce from scratch.

the goods

it's all cool

This sleek aluminum cooler was designed by Marc Newson for Moss. It keeps any bottle of bubbly extra chilled in a bucket that mirrors its shape. $1,000, mossonline.com.

HOT PROP

Hot dishes sit well on this creative propeller trivet which, when closed, folds into a slim baton. Flip open its wings, though, and find a sturdy tool that can handle dishes up to 500 degrees. $22, cooperhewittshop.org.

bananas

Cast from an actual banana bunch and designed by Harry Allen, this clever, marble-and-resin fruit bowl looks good both empty and full of fruits and vegetables. It adds a quirky decorative note to the table or the kitchen counter. $120, areaware.com.

sweet and sour

LA Organic, a team from Andalucía, blends its line of traditionally made European products with modern design, and has recruited Philippe Starck to design the packaging. We're partial to the apple balsamic, made in Mantova, Italy, from Trentino apples that are cold-pressed and fermented in oak barrels, then aged in wooden casks. amazon.com.
